NEW ERA MAY BE DAWNING IN THE NATION'S AIR CRAFT PLANS

GREENHILL MAKES REPORT OF CENSUS KNOWN TO PUBLIC

Increase In Whites Is Offset By Decrease In Blacks

Few Missed Asked To Sign Blanks And Send To School

Albany school census for 1926 shows a slight decrease in the grand total of children of school age, it was revealed today in the report made public by Superintendent N. F. Greenhill. White children of school age showed an increase over the year 1924.

Exact figures for the year, compiled by competent canvassers revealed that there are 1,814 whites between the ages of seven and twenty, eligible for school in the city of Albany. There are 272 blacks. Classified in the six year age, paying no fees, there are 158 whites and 29 blacks.

The school census of the white population showed an appreciable advance over 1924, while the negro population showed an appreciable decrease.

Figures for 1924 were: White aged six years 164; black 34; white between the ages of seven and twenty, 1695; black 449.

The grand total for the two years shows: 1926, 2,873; 1924, 2,342.

Superintendent Greenhill declared today that it is probable that some few people of school age were missed in this census and that it is hoped that these people will make their presence known to school authorities. A blank form will be published in this newspaper next week, asking that people who have not been seen will sign the blank and mail to the superintendent of schools.

Mr. Greenhill was not of the opinion that a great many had been missed in the census taking but explained that a great many people are now moving into the city and that it has been impossible to get the complete listings.

If the World Got Us FRENCH francs dropped to 2 cents yesterday, Italian lire to $3.20 a hundred, Belgian francs in spite of the king's new, extraordinary power, were weak. American financiers fear a serious drop in some European bonds. That might disturb this market. Invest your money at home.

WINSTON CHURCHILL says that while we lent England four billions, Britain spent seven billions here for war purposes.

That may be, but it was Britain's war. She spent the money to save her own life.

Our European friends do not like us, but will get over it. The important thing is to keep out of FURTHER European complications, remembering the French proverb: "Good accounts make good friends."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, what chance do you think Uncle Sam,

GADSDEN, July 24.—J. W. Cushion, 55, was shot and killed by his 17 year old son, Jesse at their home on Lookout Mountain late last night after the father had beaten a six year old child into insensibility and knocked his wife down with a rock, according to the boy's story.

It is said the boy ran outdoors with a shotgun and demanded that Cushion stop the row. Cushion is said to have started beating his wife with his fists and the boy fired. One load of buckshot tore his right arm from his body and another one entered his right side causing instant death.

Two years ago Cushion beat his wife, breaking her arm, it was said. Twenty years ago he shot their baby to death by accident as it lay in his wife's arms while he was trying to shoot a man who was attacking him.

Young Cushion brought news of the killing here this morning when he surrendered to the sheriff. He is held in jail.

FOR weeks, Rev. Walter Wynn of Great Britain, has predicted "Something important in world's history" to happen July 20. The most important thing that could happen now, in Europe, would be the discovery of a lump of gold, as big as a fair-sized apartment house, that could be used to pay Europe's debts, and let all nations start over again.

California 'Dry' Head Says Charges Held Are True

Colonel Green Admits Parties He Has Had With Liquor

(Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The Examiner said today that Colonel New M. Green, federal prohibition administrator for North Carolina and Nevada who is accused by federal authorities of misconduct and irregularities in office has admitted the truth of the charges. The United States Marshal's office has served more than 20 subpoenas for the appearance Monday of witnesses before a Federal grand jury which will investigate the charges against Colonel Green.

Colonel Green admitted, the paper says, that he had in his room seized government liquor, that he drank it, that he served the liquor to his guests, and that he had parties in his room which were attended by women as well as men.

To the reporter Green showed two dresser drawers in his room filled with bottles of assorted liquors.

"There's my answer to the government's charges," Green said. "There's the liquor they say I keep in my room."

Goode Relates Sea Experiences

John Goode, well known son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Goode, encountered many exciting experiences while on a tour of South America this summer. During a long delay on his ship, the S. S. Bibbo, sailors captured two large man-eating sharks of a species known to infest those waters. Engine trouble forced the ship to remain stationary in mid-ocean for nearly a week until necessary parts for repair could be brought by another ship exposing the passengers and crew to great danger from storm. Near the end of the voyage a distress signal was answered and 29 sailors were rescued from a sinking Italian ship. The rescue was not completed without great danger to the occupants of the rescuing ship as the ocean was exceedingly rough making travel in small boats almost impossible. Goode encountered an unusually mild winter in Buenos Aires. He stated that he found a large number of American tourists while in the large cities and visited an American church in Valparaiso. He expects to return home by September 15.

Chicago Is Scene Of 2nd Gang Murder In 24 Hours

DEAD MAN MAY HAVE BEEN ALLY

Revenge Is Motive For Slaying Of John Conlon

(Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 24.—Alcohol gangster guns last night claimed their second victim within 24 hours and the 42nd attributed to their volleys since January.

John Conlon, 25, a reputed minor henchman of one of the gangs warring over the illicit liquor traffic was riddled with shotgun slugs while he sat in a crowded westside saloon.

Officers advanced the theory that Conlon was killed in revenge for a recent double murder accredited to his allies. There was evidence that Conlon may have been the chauffeur of Frank McErlane, bootlegger gunner whose drinking as a prisoner is back of the current inquiry into conditions in the Cook county jail.

Conlon was shot 24 hours after the assassination of Philip Piazza, wealthy bootlegger and chief owner of Chicago Heights.

Safe, Fast Travel Is Predicted With The Latest Plane

The eight passenger planes recently ordered by the National Air Transport from the Ford interests for experimental purposes has not yet been delivered.

"This airplane," said the statement "represents the latest development in safe, fast air travel and will soon pass over the air mail route operated by the National Air Transport, Inc., in a series of experimental flights starting from Chicago to Dallas with stops at Davenport, Iowa, St. Joseph, Mo., Kansas City, Wichita, Kansas, Oklahoma City and Fort Worth, Texas."

PAUL SMITH'S New York, July 24.—The advisability of beginning construction of a 6,000,000 cubic foot lighter than air ship for the Navy next year was discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary Wilbur of the Navy department today, but no final conclusions were reached.

The discussion was held at the executive offices after the arrival of the secretary from Washington for a weekend visit, and was in connection with a consideration of budget estimates for the fiscal year 1928. The craft, which would be three times the size of the Shenandoah, would cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge was also informed by Mr. Wilbur that arrangements had been made for the receivers in the Pan-American petroleum case, involving the E. L. Doheny lease of the Naval Oil reserve in the Elk Hills reserve in California, to pay into the government treasury $3,500,000 on August 1 and $250,000 a month thereafter.

The money is in the possession of the receivers from accumulated receipts under their operation of the properties and is beyond and above the amounts which should be affected by pending litigation.

The validity of the Doheny lease is now before the United States supreme court for decision.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

By BEN STERN

CLEVELAND, O.—Scandal has reared its head in the school of expression conducted by Madame Tucker on Cleveland's exclusive Euclid avenue.

Until now the fair name of the school, frequented by the elite of the city, has never been tarnished, but with a night-life romance going on patrons fear for the institution's fair escutcheon.

The romance is between a gray colored little mouse and a lively yellow canary.

For several days the ladies of the school had noticed the presence of a small mouse in one of the class rooms in which stands a large cage containing the canary.

One evening on entering the room, Madame Tucker saw the mouse in the cage. As she approached the little animal scuttled about the cage and then huddled under the water cup. When Madame Tucker reached the cage, the canary flew in front of the frightened mouse and attempted to shield the mouse with her outspread wings.

While Madame Tucker hurried from the room to seek aid the mouse disappeared.

The next day the canary's cage was placed on top of a brass stand. When the students came into the class room they saw the mouse in the cage.

How he got up the brass stand, as smooth as ice, is unknown.

Now everyday it is a common sight for the first one entering the classroom to see the mouse in the canary's cage doing a balcony scene a la Romeo and Juliet.

Set in antique gold mountings, wrought from hand beaten gold by long dead and forgotten craftsmen, three diamonds, once the property of the Cossacks who marauded up and down the border of Tartary found American owners at a sale of confiscated smuggled goods, automobiles and jewelry at federal building here.

The diamonds, federal authorities said, were smuggled into this country from Czechoslovakia via the International bridge at Niagara Falls by Peter Djurich.

Suspecting that Djurich had entered this country without a visa immigration authorities apprehended Djurich, but not before he managed to sell the jewels.

He confessed the smuggling act before he was sent back to his native land. According to his story the diamonds were acquired by his great grandfather from a Cossack during the Napoleonic wars and had been in the family ever since.

After much litigation the government succeeded in libelling the jewels, valued at $3,000. They were sold for $365.

Modern science through radio has now supplanted the heretofore incomplete communication through lanterns and bells between engine and train proper, according to I. F. Finley, telegraph superintendent of the New York Central railway.

It is now possible for conductor and engineer to be in conversation and constant communication with each other through a two-way radio telephone service. Tests have shown that engine and caboose can keep in conversation through radio telephony, Finley said, "and the next and logical step will be the dispatching of trains entirely by radio."

Finley cites a test made on the Western division between Elkhart and Pinola, Indiana, which adequately demonstrated that successful radio telephone service can be maintained. In this test a freight train consisting of eleven cars and engine and caboose started from Elkhart and for a period of more than five hours the crew of the engine and that of the caboose maintained continuous phone conversation without interference from a severe electrical storm, steel bridges and passing trains.

SENSATIONAL CAREER ENDED BEHIND BARS OF ATLANTA JAIL

From a Penniless Start in 1911 Kirby's Wealth Grew in Ten Years To A Vast Figure Until He Was Imprisoned.

By BEN STERN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O.—As the clang of the gate closing on Josiah Kirby reverberated through the halls and corridors of the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, the curtain rang down on one of the most colorful personalities in the history of American Finance.

Nowhere, except in the pages narrating the exploits of "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" can there be found a parallel to the career of the man who landed in Cleveland in March, 1911 with debts totaling $60,000; and $5.25 in cash in his pockets; and in ten years was the president of the $30,000,000 Cleveland Discount company and three times a millionaire.

The man who would not wear clothing, unless it was tailored in Bond street, London and who was always the image of satirical perfection now is clothed in the rough garb of a Federal prisoner.

Heads Yacht Club

Commodore of the Cleveland Yacht club and owner of a palatial yacht, he made, what is probably his final bow to Cleveland, manacled with a convicted dope peddler and marched through the prison-bound car, so that all the city witnessed the depths of his shame and abnegation.

Now that he has disappeared from the scene, stories of his sensational rise to affluence and power in the financial world are being related. A favorite is that told of Kirby's method of gaining the acquaintance of those whom he desired to interest in his promotions.

It was his custom, it is told, to have his chauffeur collide his car with that of the man, he desired to "make."

When the owner of the other car would begin upbraiding Kirby for his carelessness, the promoter would inquire as to what was the matter—and then with a smile say "Why that is nothing at all. Tell me your name and I will send you around a new automobile."

Kirby's difficulties began when Attorney General C. C. Crabbe had him indicted for violating the state banking laws. Kirby won four straight victories from Crabbe's legal sharpshooters; and then emerged the victor from a legal clash with the California courts.

Indicted for Fraud

Miss Marie Arantz returned last night from the University, where she has been taking a summer course.

Governor Kilby broadcasted an appeal in behalf of his senatorial candidacy by radio Friday night. Now the paragraphs may be expected to furnish us with the customary equips.

Captain Gipsy Pat Smith, evangelist, on a short visit to Selma, said: "I was amazed and greatly pleased about one thing here. You know up East in the summer they close the churches up entirely, but here in Selma you not only have the churches open, but a revival is in progress and the house packed to the doors. I think that is wonderful and speaks highly of the character and caliber of your ministers and churches." Southern customs might improve some of the Eastern communities.

PATTERSON'S TOUR OF TRIUMPH IN NORTH ALABAMA WINNING THOUSANDS OF VOTES
The McDowell forces announce the coming into North Alabama of Governor Brandon, John A. Rogers and probably Mr. McDowell, himself. It is well that they bring their star speakers into the Valley section, for the tour of triumph of A. G. Patterson is making a wreck of old political fences.

The series of addresses delivered in this section by Mr. Patterson has won thousands of supporters to his standards. Mr. Patterson makes a splendid impression upon the voters wherever he goes. He is thoroughly conversant with the problems of state and he has given careful study to his plans for their solution. There is no "hit or miss" in his answers. He has weighed the questions, decided on his plan for overcoming the difficulties now facing this commonwealth and he knows how to explain his proposals to his hearers.

The only regrettable feature of the present campaign is that every Alabamian will not have an opportunity to hear Mr. Patterson in an address. If they could, his majority over his opponents would be large.

Patterson is winning and his opponents are becoming desperate. If it were not so, McDowell's friends would not be rushing their trio of stumpy speakers into this section.

ELECTION OFFICIALS CALLED UPON TO PERFORM A PATRIOTIC CIVIC DUTY

The long list of Morgan county residents who were named by the election board to conduct the Democratic primary on August 10 have had paid to them a tribute by those who selected them, yet they have been called upon to make a real sacrifice in time and effort for their county.

The men who will compose the officer personnel of the various boxes have a stupendous task before them—and a thankless one. The ballot this year is long and the job of tabulating it will be arduous.

The worst feature probably is that when they are done, there will be disappointed persons who will cast aspersions on the manner in which the election was conducted. It has ever been so and there is no reason to think this unfortunate and ungentelemanly practice will stop at this late day.

The Daily now would speak a word in behalf of these election officials. Persons who have conducted elections probably have a sympathetic understanding of the work involved, but so many of our citizens never have been called upon to undergo the hardships of the work and these oftentimes make criticisms of election boards which are thoughtlessly cruel.

There may have been a time when elections were not entirely "on the square." The Daily is sure, however, that time long since has passed. The manner of conducting elections nowadays throws so many safeguards about the balloting, it would be next to impossible for one to be anything but fair, even should the election officers desire that it be otherwise. Don't criticize the election officials merely because the election does not suit you. These men who act as election officials are performing a notable civic duty, at considerable sacrifice. Be patient with them and try to accord to them the same consideration you would desire for yourself were it you sitting cramped all day about the ballot box and sitting up half the night, or longer, tabulating the returns.

GOVERNMENT RULES AGAINST USE MAILS IN PROMOTING GIVING AWAY OF CARS

The government postal department has stepped into the discussion in Huntsville of the award of automobiles by "drawings" at the Madison county fair, and given a comprehensive ruling to the effect that the use of the mails in connection with the promotion of such events is illegal.

The Daily does not deny that it is glad that the postal department has made its clear-cut ruling. This newspaper has been embarrassed frequently in past years by persons who desired to advertise such events and who could not understand why The Daily would not advertise them, when other newspapers, they claimed, would.

Several years ago, before anyone, except possibly some learned legal lights, were aware that the advertising of award of prizes by drawings was not permissible in the mails. The Daily carried quantities of such advertising. It will be recalled that at one time scores of local business houses were using the automobile gifts as a means of promoting business. These local business people and The Daily did not know that they were violating any regulations of the postal department.

The attention of this newspaper was called to such violation, however, and The Daily immediately stopped publication of any kind of advertising which concerned the award of a gift by a "drawing." It made no difference that the gifts were gifts in fact and awarded without any charge whatever. The Daily feels that the regulations covering this subject may be a bit more stringent than conditions warrant, but it realizes that they were adopted for protection of the people against any recurrence of the old lottery, or suspicion of it.

A number of newspapers, apparently, were still unaware of their violations of the postal regulations and advertisers frequently claimed that The Daily was turning down business which other papers were glad to get. Naturally, that position was not desirable for obvious reasons.

The Huntsville Daily Times publishes the following letter sent to the postmaster of Huntsville by the postoffice department:

Postmaster,
Huntsville, Alabama.
My Dear Sir:

Complaint has been made to this office that newspapers of your city are carrying advertisements of certain merchants relating to a plan whereby tickets are given with purchases made at their store which will entitle the holders to participate in a drawing for automobiles to be given away at the Madison county fair.

In this connection, you are advised that this scheme is a lottery and under Section 473, PL & R, 1924, all matter of every kind in any way relating thereto is accordingly unlawful.

If any newspapers containing advertisements of this enterprise are offered for mailing at your office, you should refuse to accept the same, and the attention of the publishers of such papers should be invited to the enclosed copy of Section 213 of the Penal Code of the United States, which makes it a criminal offense to deposit such matter in the mails.

Yours very truly,
HORACE J. DONNELLY,
Solicitor.

The Daily trusts that its patrons will bear in mind this ruling when they prepare their advertising programs. The Daily wants their business, but it does not feel inclined to attempt to circumvent the postal regulations and thereby become liable for drastic punishment.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

(By J. E. Blair)

A seven year old boy stopped reading his pretty book. He stopped his play. He did his tasks with a weary sad countenance. He was listless. He finally became nervous and irritable. Out of her heart of love, the boy's mother asked him what was the matter. The boy said he did not know. The mother seemed unable to find the cause of the boy's distress. The father of the boy was away in a big hospital undergoing treatment. He had been gone several weeks at the time the son got out of fix. The same day the mother asked what ailed her boy, later in the day she said: "I wonder what papa is doing?" And the boy burst into tears! He was home-sick for his daddy. His little lonesome heart had born up as long as possible.

Now, it makes absolutely no difference what others may say, what all our world of grown-up children is that we are lonesome and home-sick for God!

Is it not fair to reason thus? Just like the little boy, we may have good surroundings. We may have plenty of play and many congenial companions. We may have tasks suited to our dispositions. We may be so we can eat roast turkey every day and spend our winters in the Land of Flowers—in a word, we may have everything but a home for the soul and we will be unhappy! They talk about the Bible being like any other book. Ask some of those who will never know like wise men until they are as old as wise men, how in the name of commonsense, then, came that place to be in the Bible which says, "Oh, Lord, Thou, who hast been our dwelling place in all generations?" How came St. Thomas to say to the Master, "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us?"

Would it have been possible for the "hiring" about the place to have found the trouble with the boy, as did his mother. No the "hiring" did not love the boy enough in the first place to be worried about his condition. Is it possible for a "hiring ministry" to point out the Father? No!

The poor lost sheep of our all but ruined world, will not hear the voice of a stranger! They say there are those who love their fellowmen well enough to be effective in showing the Father to their associates, just as the mother acquainted the son with his trouble by suggesting his father to him.

Who is to blame now about this thing of people not accepting Christ? Let's be frank about the matter. If Christians were as kind and loving to those who are home-sick for God, as was the mother of whom we have spoken, would the wondering ones, learn to seek God? Would they say as the Psalmist of old—"As the hart panteth after the waterbrook, so panteth my soul after Thee, Oh God?"

ISSUES AN APPEAL TO THE

Voters of Morgan County

In making my campaign for nomination I had anticipated the pleasure of meeting each voter personally before the Primary, but I now find myself face to face with circumstances which make it impossible for me to realize this hope and which makes me all the more dependent upon the co-operation of my good friends whose loyalty has already laid me under lasting obligations to them.

Since I entered this campaign my mother has been stricken desperately ill and is now lingering between life and death. She is so situated that she is very largely dependent on me for attention and my first duty is to her. I shall see you if it is possible but should I fail I trust you will still give me the benefit of your vote.

In the event that I am honored by my fellow citizens with position of Sheriff I pledge every possible effort to render the most efficient service of which I am capable and to give a fair, fearless and impartial enforcement of all the laws.

The World Forgotten -- By Juanita Hamel.

As far as they're concerned, the earth has completely rolled away, and they are floating through space on a fleecy cloud of love, tinted with the rosy dreams of two trusting hearts. They're of the earth, but not on it, just whirling along in a joyous ecstasy. They've forgotten that there's a sun, or a moon or stars; they've forgotten all the prosaic things of life and all the beauties of the earth; they've forgotten everything except just their own selves and their wonderful love. But Love is like that—for the time being at any rate—it thinks only of itself. However, eventually they'll come back to earth and bring their love with them.

PARIS—Clafoutis Berrichon is a kind of good cherry roll. Mix two whole eggs with three-fifths pound of flour, one-half pint of milk and pinch of salt. The milk should be warm and sweetened.

When the batter is entirely free from lumps, add two pounds of black cherries, stemmed but not seeded.

Turn out into a buttered baking dish and dot with small lumps of butter.

At the end of one hour of baking, sprinkle with powdered sugar and put into the oven again for one quarter of an hour.

Paris Style Hints

By ALICE LANGELEIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS—Wraps for summer evenings are not always filmy ones. In fact, for the moment, one sees a great many fur ones, but as the season advances, they will probably be less frequent.

All kinds of rich colorings are to be seen in the newer evening wraps. Platinum and silver brocade has a platinum fox collar and there are many lovely blues, greens and fuchsias being made with sable and kolinsky collars. Some of the patterned lames are very beautiful and are woven in strange designs. A silver Ottoman has crushed panes and another has crushed roses. Dice, checks and polka-dots are strewn in color against metal backgrounds in some of the new designs of evening wraps.

Evening wraps of new satin are cut with enormous cuffs and depend on the grace of the wearers for their line when the coat is held closed. Dyed mink is finding a certain amount of favor as a trimming although for evening longer-haired furs are more effective.

A silver and chestnut-brown tissue coat is made with the new wide sleeves and cut with a slight flare. A gold and bois de rose tissue has a large fox collar dyed the same pink shade and a copper and oxydized coat has a sable dyed squirrel collar and is lined with sable-dyed squirrel lock. A wall-flower velvet and a gold broche is made like a cape and has a fox collar dyed to tone with it. A new fancy radium material is also being made into wraps.

A delightful evening wrap from Lucien Lelong's is made of the same rose Matignon shade of crepe georgette as the evening gown it accompanies. The sleeves and hemline are ornamented with deep bands of natural fox in all of its reddish and golden tones and above these bands of fur on both coat and dress are placed undulating bands of lame in several tones, the chief of which are rose and gold. The lower of these serpentine bands is several shades darker than the upper and lines embroidery into the two. Line embroidery also finishes the top of the lame band.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl 15 years of age. I live in the country and do not go to parties or dances, for my parents do not care much about it. I would like to go out with my friends, but never have asked my parents about it.

How should I go about asking my parents about this matter of going out?

BRUNETTE: Well, my dear, you know your parents best, and consequently you should know exactly how to approach them on this matter. I suggest that you tell them you are lonely without friends and that you want their permission to invite young men and women to your home. Tell them that they will meet these friends and be able to judge their merits—and that if they disapprove of any you will be guided by their opinion. Once these boys and girls have gained the confidence of your parents, your home will be open to them—and your problem solved.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

How old should a girl be to marry? BLUE EYES.

BLUE EYES: This depends on the girl herself. Miss Blue Eyes, if she is mature at nineteen, then that is the right age for her to marry—provided her parents have no objections. But if she has not been about much, her age doesn't matter much. The whole question is one which should really be settled by her parents, who have only her welfare at heart, and who can therefore advise her wisely.

EDUCATION BASED ON BETTER HEALTH

But Denying the Body Needful Foods to Gain a Fine Figure Is Wrong and May Lead to Serious Heart Trouble.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IT is said that college women are becoming taller and thinner. The instructor in physical education at the University of Kansas has reached this conclusion. After examining all the girls in the freshman class at the University she finds that the average freshman woman student is eighteen years and eight months old; the average weight is 119 pounds; the average height is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches.

I do not know how these figures compare with statistics compiled in other colleges. It would be interesting to get more information on this subject.

Girls entering college at eighteen, if properly trained and fed, will grow a good deal during the four years of a college career. Of course they will gain in weight as well as in height.

The other day as I entered the Senate Office Building I saw two little girls turning hand springs on the lawn at the side door. Gymnastic exercises of this sort begun in early life and continued through college days would make any girl plump, active, and physically strong. Systematic exercise, too, is likely to prevent the development of excessive flesh.

But all the exercise in the world will go for nothing if there is a failure to practice the rules of right eating. If I were an instructor in physical education I should place great emphasis upon the instruction in food values and the daily food habits.

I do not need to tell any sensible person that starvation and self denial at the table do not insure good health or a perfect figure. There are certain demands of the body which must be heeded. If they are overlooked the health is sure to suffer.

I wonder if one reason why heart troubles are so prevalent is because the heart muscle is not fed as it should be. Every day we must take a certain amount of protein food. This is the sort of food that builds and repairs the body. Without it there can be no growth and no certainty of vigorous and normal organs. Not only the heart but all the organs of the body require protein food. They cannot be maintained and made capable of performing their daily function unless they are restored all the time through the agency of good foods.

I am glad the universities are giving heed to the matter of physical education. No matter how well worked out may be the curriculum, no matter how brilliant may be the student, no matter what information may be stored in the brain, all will go for naught if the body breaks and the health is impaired.

Answers to Health Queries

R. M. K. Q.—What would you suggest for gall bladder trouble. I have been advised to take glycerin. Would this be helpful for the bladder and kidneys?

A.—Careful diet, avoidance of constipation, plenty of water between meals and regular outdoor exercise should help a gall bladder condition. In some instances an operation may be necessary. Have your doctor prescribe after a careful examination. If the glycerin was prescribed for your particular case by a doctor who is familiar with your condition there is no reason why you should hesitate in taking it.

Few things make a woman happier than she is when she can get her husband to waste $40 worth of his time doing 75 cents worth of work around the house.

"Jenny Kissed Me"
Jenny kissed me when we met,
Jumping from the chair she sat in;
Time, you thief, who love to get
Sweets into your list, put that in;
Say I'm weary, say I'm sad,
Say that health and wealth have missed me,
Say I'm growing old, but add,
Jenny kissed me.

On seeing an old flame in after years
(With apologies to Liegh Hunt)
Jenny used to be my pet—
Cozy was the swing we'd kiss in Time, old top, who love to get Jokes into your list put this in;
Say 'm thankful; Say I'm glad,
(Was it really she that kissed me?)
Say I'm married now, and add—
Jenny missed me.

Woman's greatest tragedy is that when she is twenty she tries to be faithful to her husband and cannot, that when she is fifty she tries to be faithless to her husband and cannot.

Too many persons are trying to get more out of life than they are putting into it.

In a walking race non-smokers beat the smokers. Presumably the former did less puffing.

The real reason so many young married people don't pull together and fly back in the matrimonial harness is because there is a waggin' tongue between them.

If this Charleston craze keeps up, shin guards and helmets will take their place with the wing collar and low cut gown.

"Why did you cancel your order for those fountain-pens?"
"Because the salesman wrote down my order with a lead pencil."

Courting used to be more elaborate. The old-fashioned girls had more time to listen.

"Sir, your daughter has promised to become my wife."
"Well, don't come near me for sympathy. I knew something like that would happen to you hanging around the house five nights a week."

"The voice of the people is often full of bunk."

Other Clubs Are Asking For Date

Madison, Hartselle, Falkville and other amateur clubs are asking for scheduled games with the Albany-Decatur combination team of business men and high school players.

it was stated today. Most of the teams desire return games which to a great extent makes it impossible for business men to accept the invitation. Games here will be continued throughout the summer, some money having been arranged to finance the purchase of equipment.

COOL
COOL!

—Here Is How—

When the air is stifling and dry and it seems too hot to breathe; when even the electric fan blows only warm stale air, did you ever try this?

Place a piece of ice in a shallow pan or bowl, directly in front of the electric fan. Air, cooled by ice, will be blown from the fan in a steady stream.

This is found especially helpful in a sickroom

For cold drinks, for home-made Ice Cream, for any number of household uses you need PLENTY of ice all the time. Be sure you have a good refrigerator and keep it well iced.

No substitute could possibly perform all the services of clear, sparkling ice.

Pirates Idly Crawl Within Game and a Half of Redlegs; Cobb Flares at Fan

While it was raining in Pirate and quelled the fury within the haven Friday, Boston accomplished the unexpected and defeated the all-powerful Cincy Reds in their own lot 6-2. The Pirates crawled within a game and a half of the leaders as the result of that tilt and though the clouds were dreary in Pirateville all fandom managed to see clear through to the silver lining.

The Cards continued their pressing engagement with second place when they took another tilt from the Giants. Billy Southworth, ex-Baron and ex-Giant, accounted for four of the Card tallies.

The Cubs beat the Phillies in the other National affair, 5-3. The Cubs solved Dean without much difficulty. Root chalked up his 13th win of the year, holding a steady course, though touched for ten blows.

Say what you please about the names of the Yankee roster, but they know how to play baseball and that's what they are hired for. Such tongue-twisters as Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig, Gazzela and Paschal cause fans much argument while perusing the newspapers, but over in the hit column there is another story to be learned. This crowd of immigrants know how to hit, they must have learned how in recent revolutions, nevertheless they are keeping the Yanks up in the front. Hank Severid was a big factor in the Yank win over the White Sox yesterday, hitting a double and two singles in his first appearance for Huggins. The crowd of foreigners hit everything from singles to home runs and the Yanks held on to their eight game margin by a score of 11-3.

Ty Cobb blossomed into the full bloom of his youth yesterday when he appeared in Washington. Perhaps the Tyger manager thought he was a representative in Congress or a member of the Senate, whatever it was a verbal exchange became too hot for the Tyger manager and he leaped into the stands to take the fight out of a razzing fan. Police corps were on hand stellar baseball lately.

New Orleans did the expected yesterday and handed the Barons a 7-6 reversal, though it required 12 innings to do the trick. The Pels battered consistently against four Baron hurlers, starting with Hadley and continuing against Thomas, Palmero and Stewart. Palmero, the recently acquired Senator, the Cuban Palmero, has been enjoying the same kind of fame that he enjoyed when he was a member of the Senators. The Barons sent Crowder to the Senators in his stead.

The Chiefs swung into action in the ninth inning to score nine runs against the Volunteers to win 15-8.

Little Rock had little trouble in doing away with Lookout hopes yesterday 6-2. Eddie Lewis gathered two of the Noogan hits, a pair of two sackers.

Atlanta and Mobile were not scheduled.
